

Doing Little Things Well, a Characteristic of This Store

A small transaction, which may seem small to a merchant, is often of great importance to the purchaser and so we care for the small transaction in the same satisfactory manner as for the larger ones. Our stocks of small articles receives the same care as do our stocks of the more important things. You are our customer if only you buy a package of needles. You get the same treatment here that the purchaser of many dollars worth of goods gets.

We Sell the Genuine Phoenix Muffer

If you are looking for the neat, stylish muffer that always fits smoothly and perfectly—the snugly-comfortable one that can be snapped on or off instantly—you'll find what you want here. We'll show you the genuine Phoenix—not a bulky, bunglelike substitute or an old fashioned kind that requires a scarf pin and is constantly slipping out of place. We carry this unusually popular muffer in all shades, weaves and sizes for men, women and children.

WASHINGTON.

Cyrus Dickey Resigns as Town Clerk. M. W. Chamberlin Appointed.

This town was called upon to meet with a heavy loss in the death of Chester Dickey, which occurred Wednesday evening at his late home. The funeral services were held at his late residence at 1 o'clock Friday and at the Baptist church at 2 o'clock. He will be missed by all, as his opinion, especially on the matters pertaining to law, was considered unquestionable; and as a loyal citizen Mr. Dickey was of the true type. The interment was in his family lot in the new cemetery.

Mrs. Clara Caley is away for a time visiting her relatives.

Mrs. Madara Clough has closed her home here and gone to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. C. L. Slack, at West Berlin.

All members of the F. O. O. F. are requested to be present at the next meeting, Thursday evening, as business of importance is to be transacted.

G. W. Richardson, G. E. Huntington, E. L. Foster, Abraham Clough, L. L.

Huntington, J. L. Eastman, were among the lucky ones to capture a deer the past week.

Cyrus Dickey, who has been for the past two years our efficient town clerk, has, owing to his illness, resigned his office to take effect to-day. The selectmen have appointed M. W. Chamberlin to fill out the unexpired term of Mr. Dickey.

The Halloween party given by the pupils of the grammar school Saturday evening was largely attended. A short program was rendered, after which refreshments of cake and coffee were served, and then the promenade was in order, which lasted until nearly midnight.

Mr. Elmore has started several juvenile classes in Montpelier, for afternoon work, and is teaching some of the finest dancing that has ever been seen, for the little folks. If there are any of the mothers in Barre, who wish to form a juvenile class, Prof. Elmore would be glad to have them communicate with him.

For the first time in the history of the stage, a play has been written dealing with that most interesting type of American, namely, the traveling salesman, and which will be seen at the opera house next Thursday, Nov. 4. It was written by James Forbes, the author of "The Chorus Lady," which means that a first class entertainment filled with mirth and insured. Its title, "The Traveling Salesman," indicates mirth and merriment, projected in a manner unique and interesting.

A copy of an Aberdeen, Scotland, newspaper has been received announcing the death of Rev. Dr. Stewart, pastor of the John street Congregational church in Aberdeen, who will be remembered by many Aberdeen people in Barre. Dr. Stewart dropped dead from heart trouble while walking with A. C. Morrison on the Decatur turnpike. He was a native of Coupar-Angus, born in 1835 and had been preaching for 45 years. Dr. Stewart's greatest renown was gained through his debate with Charles Watts, a seceder. For his notable defense of religion in this forensic contest, which took place in 1872, he was given a testimonial, including a handsome gold watch and a purse of forty sovereigns. He was also noted as one of the foremost temperance advocates of north Scotland.
